

COURSE REFERENCE CODE

LEC (Legal and Ethical Considerations)

COURSE OVERVIEW

This training module has been designed to provide students with an in-depth understanding of the legal and ethical environments in which they will conduct work as a private investigator. This course is essential to understanding what a private investigator can and cannot do when engaged on an assignment. Using actual examples to illustrate and enhance understanding, the student will also appreciate the impact of working within the various geopolitical and cultural environments of Asia.

On completion of this course students will be able to understand the legal and ethical constraints when conducting investigations in various countries within the Asia region.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

This module will teach the student the following:

- Legal and ethical standards of conduct across countries in the Asia region;
- The importance of confidentiality;
- Ethical reporting;
- The impact of geopolitical and cultural norms impacting work within Asia;
- The impact of bribery and corruption; and
- Value of professional associations and qualifications.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

This course will be delivered using classroom lectures, student role-playing and exercises to test understanding.

On conclusion of the module participants will receive a comprehensive set of student notes and certificate of completion.

COURSE DURATION	COURSE VALUE
½-day module	This module will be of value to all students required to work within the private investigation industry, or on a regular basis with those who provide such services.